LETTER FROM THE DIRECTORS

This biennial report of the Board of Election Commissioners (BOEC) continues a tradition initiated in 1986 of informing the voting public of our activities for the previous two years. This and previous biennial reports may be found on the BOEC website: www.stlouisco.com/elections.

The 2013-2014 election cycle began like most others with municipal and special elections spread throughout 2013 and early 2014. It initially appeared as though the 2014 primary and general elections would be relatively mundane affairs. For the first time since 1990 there would be no Presidential or U.S. Senate contest on the general election ballot. Compounding this dynamic was the fact that the Democratic Party did not field a candidate for state auditor which was the only statewide race on the ballot. For St. Louis County voters, however, the dull tint to the 2014 primary and general elections was quickly wiped away by the increasingly competitive race for county executive.

On the first day of candidate filing, sixth district County Councilman Steve Stenger entered the Democratic primary for county executive against 10 year incumbent Charlie Dooley. On the Republican side, term-limited State Representative Rick Stream entered the fray buoying Republican hopes that the party might retake the county executive suite for the first time since 1990. In what became a contentious primary battle, Steve Stenger proceeded to upend Charlie Dooley by a surprisingly wide margin of victory. The November general election contest between Steve Stenger and Rick Stream could not have been more dissimilar from the primary. The political campaigning leading up to November was dominated by the civil unrest following the death of a Ferguson teenager during a police investigation. Councilman Stenger was ultimately able to edge out Representative Stream by a razor-thin margin that resulted in a recount. The results of the county executive primary and general elections are illustrated with statistical spreadsheets and maps on pages 13-14.

Turning our focus inward to the mechanics of elections, one question we often receive is, “Who pays for that election?” The answer is the taxpayers, but which taxpayers depends on the election. The state of Missouri pays each county to conduct elections when only statewide candidates and issues are on the ballot and for special elections of state candidates.

For local elections each political subdivision that puts something on the ballot pays a proportional cost of the election based on the number of registered voters in each entity. This can make the billing process for the annual municipal election in April quite time consuming since it is possible for any combination of nearly 200 political subdivisions and taxing districts to place something on the ballot.

On page 7-8 you will find a detailed cost breakdown from the April 2014 general municipal election. This chart illustrates well the costs of an election at a very granular level. One can see from this chart that a part of the City of Pacific with 10 registered voters paid $6.05 for its portion of the election. The Junior College District, by virtue of placing a vote for Trustee on the ballot, was billed $341,698.78 based on 562,148 voters registered within the Junior College Subdistricts 1 & 4.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of election costs in the state of Missouri comes in the form of an unfunded mandate in RSMO 115.063.3. This section specifies that the state shall not be liable for any costs of a primary or general election held in even-numbered years. This means that counties pick up the tab for the higher turnout elections held every other year. The only way for a county to offset a portion of this cost is for another entity such as a city or school district to put something on the ballot at the same time. In this case the costs will be assessed proportionally as previously described.

It is often said that you can't put a price on democracy, but as any economics professor will tell you, there is no such thing as a free lunch either. While we would agree that democracy is priceless, someone must ultimately pay for an election to occur. See pages 3-5 to view cost comparisons for each election in St. Louis County over the past two years.

As the BOEC prepares for a challenging 2016, we will strive to provide top notch service to the voters of St. Louis County. Please feel free to contact us should you have any questions or comments.

Respectfully,

Eric Fey
Honorable Gary Fuhr
Directors of Elections

Eric was raised in St. Louis County and currently resides in South County with his wife Lilo and son Oskar. Eric received a BA in Political Science from Webster University and a MPPA (Public Policy Administration) from the University of Missouri St. Louis. In his free time, Eric enjoys participating in international election observation missions, most recently observing parliamentary elections in Sri Lanka in August of 2015.

Gary started with the Board of Elections on October 1, 2012 after retiring from a career in law enforcement and serving in the Missouri State House of Representatives. Gary was raised in St. Louis County and served in the U.S. Navy before receiving a BS degree in Mathematics from Maryville University. He is married with four children and nine grandchildren.

Election Summaries

In Missouri, there are four authorized election days per year: the Tuesday following the first Monday in February; April; August; and November. The presidential preference primary is now held on the second Tuesday after the first Monday in March. A countywide election requires the coordination of multiple factors. Each of the 450 polling places needs to be staffed with six to eight (up to 14 in a presidential election) Election Judges. Ballots have to be printed and voting equipment delivered to the polls. The following summaries include the costs associated with the six elections held in 2013 and 2014.

Legislative Changes

HB 163 allows for a council member of a third class city to serve a four-year term if the city passes an ordinance or a majority of the voters approve a proposal on the ballot. Some third class cities may eliminate their primary election by order or ordinance.

Effective 5/15/2013

2014

SB 892 changes the presidential preference primary to March on the second Tuesday after the first Monday of the month of each presidential election year.

Effective 8/28/2014

HB 1136 changed a variety of election laws:

- Allows compensation for a Missouri youth participant in an election.
- Changes the law to accommodate the current use of electronic poll books.
- Adds municipal taxes to the types of taxes that cannot be delinquent in order for a person to be a qualified candidate for office.
- Allows for the inspection of election records at least once a year.
- Updates obsolete references to older types of voting machines.

Effective 8/28/2014

Registration Sources

While there are several ways a voter can register in the state of Missouri, the two main sources of registrations received are from the Missouri Department of Revenue (Division of Motor Vehicles) and individual postcards sent to the BOEC office.

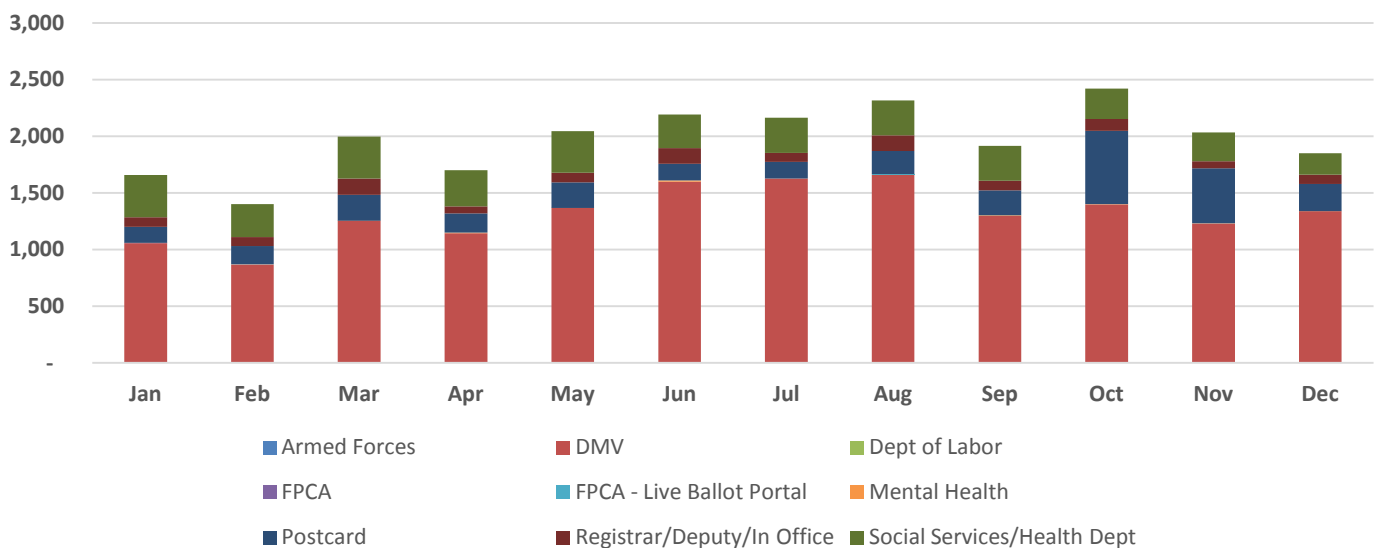

In 2013, the number of voter registrations was fairly constant. While in 2014, voter registrations increased every month from June to October.

Worker Spotlight, In Their Own Words

Supervisor Mabel Schira – 136 Elections Worked

I have acquired many skills, both personally and professionally, in my 38 years of doing various work in local, state, and national elections and primaries. My technical knowledge expanded to include the use of touch-screen voting and the use of personal data devices. However, it is the personal side of being a poll worker that has a bigger impact during my time working at the elections. I feel that I have helped give back to my community by helping older voters adapt to the new voting technology and encouraging the young voters to come back. I have gained interpersonal supervisory and mediation skills through working with the voting public. All of this, in addition to forming deep and lasting friendships with my coworkers, has made my years of being a poll worker gratifying.

Supervisor Carol Belisle – 108 Elections Worked

Sometime prior to the elections, in I believe 1976, I was invited to a Florissant Republican Club tea to introduce a candidate for state representative. At that time someone from the election board spoke about the opportunity to work in the elections. This was something my mother had done for a number of years and the idea appealed to me so I applied. I started as a poll worker and did that for a few years. When I was asked if I would be a supervisor, I agreed and have remained so ever since. Getting up at 4:00 AM is never easy, but I have been fortunate and have always worked with a good group of people which helps make the day pass. For many of the past years, I have been at Robinwood School in the Ferguson-Florissant School District. Consequently, I have gotten to know many of the voters and look forward to seeing them return year after year. For the past 18 years or so, my husband, Bill, has been my assistant supervisor which makes the experience even nicer. I know I can depend upon him to keep the vote recorders up and running. The day is long and sometimes physically demanding, but at the end of the month, when the check comes in, it is all worth it.

Poll Worker Lillian Putman – 103 Elections Worked

I started working at the polls in 1978. In all those years, I think we had about six different supervisors. They were all good to work with. I was also a supervisor for a time, until the new machines came in. I was blessed to work with good people and 10 minutes from my home. When I started, I knew most of the voters, all old neighbors. Now I'm meeting lots of new ones. I started working at a very old unique landmark in St. Louis County, Stovall's Grove Tavern. One election we were on TV, we were the only polling place still in a tavern, it was a very interesting place to work. I still have voters tell me they miss it. I also had fun telling my friends I sat in a tavern all day! I do enjoy still working as long as I can.
