Letter from the Directors

As the old saying goes, “the only constant in life is change,” and that has certainly held true here at the Election Board over the last two years. With election dates fixed by state and federal laws, however, it may be a bit puzzling as to what is constantly changing. Well, it’s all the stuff that happens before and after those fixed dates that challenges election administrators. So, this Biennial Report is bringing you a host of examples of how the Election Board has used innovation and process improvement to meet the challenge of constant change.

A prime example of one of these fixed yet unpredictable tasks is the redistricting and reapportionment that must occur following each Census. We know that congressional districts, state legislative districts, county council districts, townships, and municipal wards all must be redrawn based on the new Census numbers, but we never know how long it will take each body responsible for drawing these new lines to complete their work or how harmonious the new boundaries will be with existing boundaries. On page 10 there is an explanation of the efforts expended by our Geographic Information System (GIS) team to complete this complex project on time and in a more transparent manner than years past.

2021 was also a good time for an “I Voted” sticker refresh. These stickers that voters receive after casting their ballot are increasingly popular which led us to undertake a community-wide contest, chronicled on pages 11 and 12, to develop a new sticker. This sticker contest and a host of other innovations were recognized by various organizations with awards in 2021 and 2022. Described on pages 15 and 16, these awards are a tremendous recognition of the work of the Election Board staff to make the gears of democracy turn a bit more efficiently and transparently.

Speaking of transparency, election reporting, observation, and election audits were thrust into the limelight following the 2020 General Election. The Election Board improved election night reporting on its website with public-friendly features making it easier for users to see and analyze election results. The post-election audit process was also improved. Missouri election law has for many years required pre and post-election testing along with post-election audits and reconciliations. State law and regulations have always required these processes be open to candidates and political parties, but very few people have attended in past years. To make these events more transparent and approachable, the Election Board undertook a comprehensive review of these procedures detailed on page 17.

Just like procedures, election laws are often in flux and 2022 didn’t disappoint in this regard. The Missouri General Assembly adopted a number of election law changes in 2022, known as House Bill 1878, with the most notable new elements being a photo voter identification requirement and the establishment of a two week, no-excuse, in-person absentee voting period. Although lawsuits challenging this new law were filed, we had to train election judges and prepare for an orderly implementation. Page 29 has a recap of this law’s implementation for the 2022 General Election.

This Biennial Report is the 22nd produced by the Election Board and it is a tradition we have come to love. These reports serve as a snapshot in time of the relevant topics in election administration and the political lay of the land in St. Louis County. While we know there will be elections throughout 2023 and 2024, we have no idea what new laws and regulations might be in effect or who and what will ultimately prevail in these elections. With that in mind, mark your calendars for early 2025 for the next edition of the Biennial Report.

Respectfully,

Ballot Chain of Custody

A standard process map key was used.

Improving the chain of custody for absentee ballots received by the St. Louis County Board of Elections (BOE) was identified as a priority project in 2021, one that would require high effort but yield a high impact. In January, the agency committed to improving the absentee ballot chain of custody process by the General Municipal Election in April, the first county-wide election in 2021.

Like jurisdictions across the U.S., St. Louis County experienced a remarkable increase in absentee ballots in 2020. The Board of Elections processed more than one-quarter of a million absentee ballots in the 2020 primary and presidential elections. In St. Louis County, inbound absentee ballots come from multiple sources, including the U.S. Postal Service, election satellite sites, Board of Election headquarters, and nursing homes.

The improvement project scope encompassed measures to increase security and control of absentee ballots, methods to locate ballots, streamlining to improve efficiencies, and documentation of processes and procedures.

The approach used to address chain of custody for absentee ballots drew on well-established process improvement methods and techniques, including swim lane mapping which shows the assigned tasks, workflow, and decision points; non-value-added (NVA) analysis which helps identify backlogs, confusion, and other weaknesses; and hands-on simulations. A core group of BOE leaders and team members met weekly to analyze the process, brainstorm, and test solutions.

Input on the chain of custody process was gathered from the mail room to map the current state of the process.

The future state shows improvements to the process.

Many improvements to the absentee ballot chain of custody process were developed and implemented by the BOE in time for the April election. These improvements spanned multiple domains – physical space, digital processing, templates for forms, policies and procedures, communication, and training. All solutions were generated in-house by elections staff who do and/or supervise the work. Improvements ranged from simple to complex, maximized use of materials on hand, and minimized costs.

The physical security of ballots was strengthened by relocating ballot drop boxes, auditing camera views, locking ballot transport bags, and requiring ballots to take the shortest path directly to the Ballot Room. Visual management solutions to reduce errors included color-coding forms and security seals and standardizing the physical storage of ballots. Most importantly, tracking ballots was made possible by using in-house bar coding and scanning technology. Asset management software, already in use to track election equipment, was adapted to track ballot security bags. The flow and quantity of ballots can now be monitored at each stage of the process.

Decennial Redistricting

Every ten years following the federal decennial census, all federal, state, and local election boundaries must be redrawn as required by law. Redistricting is a complex process that varies by state and sets political boundaries for the next decade. St. Louis County's Board of Elections (BOE) plays a key role in the redistricting process, including responsibility for redrawing township boundaries, maintaining district boundaries for precincts, and adjusting those boundaries when other representational entities redraw their districts.

Missouri's redistricting process is driven by the state constitution and statutes. It involves various appointed panels and commissions, is not well understood by the public, and can be contentious. The redistricting cycle in Missouri spanned more than one year, from the release of apportionment counts by the U.S. Census Bureau in April 2021 to the Governor's signature to approve congressional districts in May 2022.

At the BOE, the release of redistricting data by the U.S. Census Bureau in August 2021 allowed the agency to redraw political townships as required by Missouri statutes. Townships are political districts established to provide local constituents access to political parties' activities at a local level through elected committee men and women. There are twenty-eight townships in St. Louis County. Over the next nine months, BOE's mapping team entered new boundary lines into Missouri's voter database and mapping system as new boundaries were drawn for municipalities, Missouri Representative and Senate districts, County Council Districts, and, finally, U.S. Congressional districts.

St. Louis County is one of the most complex counties in the U.S. With one million residents, a myriad of jurisdictions, elected officials, and precincts, boundaries are complicated. An added layer of complexity resulted from 2020 decennial redistricting.

St. Louis County is one of the most complex counties in the U.S. based on its number of political jurisdictions.

To help the public untangle this complexity, the Board of Elections created an easy-to-use online map hub with enhanced accessibility for visually impaired users. Using ArcGIS tools, the hub allows users to find their new voting districts using address lookups, see boundary changes with a slider map feature, download data, print maps, link to election information, and learn about redistricting.

The map hub has proven to be popular with the public. On June 1, 2022, when the new U.S. Congressional Districts were posted online and shared on Twitter, there were 1,000 views in the first 90 minutes. Since its launch in February 2022 through the end of 2022, there have been 11,000 views of the site.

I Voted Sticker Contest

The St. Louis County Board of Elections (BOE) had long wanted an "I Voted" sticker with more pizzazz. Its first voting sticker debuted in 2006 when new touchscreen voting equipment was first used. Since 2016, the BOE had used off-the-shelf stickers, standard in design, but extremely popular with St. Louis County voters. An election truism across the U.S. also holds true in St. Louis County - no matter what happens on Election Day, "do not run out of 'I Voted' stickers!" With touchscreens gone and new election equipment launched in St. Louis County in 2020, the time was right for new stickers and a goal of having them for the 2022 election cycle was set.

The St. Louis County Library is one of the BOE's most supportive partners. With its expertise in hosting its own annual bookmark contests, and strong community presence, working in partnership with them to host a sticker contest only made sense. In mid-year 2021, a committee of library and election board staff was recruited to design the contest with a launch date of September 27.

To broaden participation and promote inclusion, there were three eligibility categories for residents to submit artwork: 1) students in grades 6-8; 2) students in grades 9-12; and 3) adults aged 18 years and older. Also, since many sticker contests limit the type of submission, both digital and hand drawn submissions were allowed for broader participation. The only requirements set forth were that submissions had to include the words "I Voted" but could not include St. Louis City icons and other landmarks that were not located in St. Louis County.

Prior to the contest's launch, the BOE developed a flyer, press releases, social media content, digital message boards and media engagement to publicize the contest while St. Louis County Library developed an online portal for digital submissions and allowed hand drawn submissions to be dropped off at any of their twenty branches. In addition to both the BOE and the library promoting the contest, the BOE reached out to all 24 public school districts in St. Louis County, 52 private high schools and middle schools, 50+ municipalities, and 9 colleges, as well as arts, education, youth, and civic groups. These organizations, in turn, promoted the contest through their own social media and communication networks.

The contest ran for two-weeks from September 27 - October 15. During this time, 224 entries were received and 175 were eligible for consideration. Of the eligible submissions, 56% were digital and 44% were hand drawn. Compiled images of the submissions were then uploaded to ArcGIS Survey 123, a digital platform, for semifinalist voting to be completed by a judging panel of committee members. Using a multi-voting process on iPads (i.e. "e-poll books"), the panel narrowed down the field of entries from 175 to 9, selecting a total of nine semifinalists, three in each category. To facilitate a "blind" voting process, each entry was identified by a letter and number based on entry category and type.

Using ArcGIS Survey 123 again, a public voting portal was open November 5 - 14 for family, friends, residents and others to vote for the top three finalists. Over ten days, nearly 7,000 votes were cast, with votes from every zip code in St. Louis County. The BOE carefully observed the voting using an analysis of click rates to monitor potential "digital ballot box stuffing."

I Voted Sticker Contest

Kathryn Owens, Mariam Rana and Tara Wang received award plaques displaying their artwork.

On November 15, 2021, the three winners, who each lived in a different part of St. Louis County, were announced. They each learned about the contest from a different source and had their own personal perspectives on what inspired their designs.

6 - 8 Grade: The sixth-grade winner, Mariam Rana of Parkway South Middle School, wanted to portray voting as a key element of community. She noted, "I wanted to communicate diversity in the most obvious form by drawing my own and other ethnicities...all standing together."

9 - 12 Grade: The eleventh-grade winner, Tara Wang of Pattonville High School, created her sticker concept in a graphic design class. She noted that a lot of "I Voted" stickers "feel detached from the people." She said she wanted to "make everyone feel represented" in her design.

18 and Older: The adult winner, Kathryn Owens of Brentwood, selected features of St. Louis County from the built and natural environment. While St. Louis County is bordered by prominent rivers, the bridge in her design also depicts the "connection between people and communities."

I Voted at Home: As a bonus, the BOE also got a new "I Voted at Home" sticker when the artwork from eleven-year-old Julia Boren included a mailbox in the design in her hand drawn entry. The design is now included with absentee ballots mailed to St. Louis County voters.

The newly minted stickers were printed in December 2021 and were first distributed in St. Louis County's April 5, 2022 election. However, from the early planning stages, the BOE knew it wanted to maximize the stickers through various promotions other than just handing them out to voters at polling places. The launch of the new stickers prompted the BOE to take a different, and, hopefully, more effective approach to Election Day selfies. While St. Louis County voters have previously been encouraged to take selfies with their "I Voted" stickers, they had not been provided with specific guidance or encouragement, so participation had been limited.

Inspired by the new stickers, poster backdrops were created and displayed in all polling places during elections in 2022. Leading up to each election day, social media campaigns ran, and flyers were displayed to inform and encourage voters to take a selfie they would then upload to Facebook, Twitter or Instagram and tag the BOE in the photo. With permission, uploaded photos continue to be used for marketing purposes.

Vote Anywhere: Transforming Voter Experience

New voting equipment and the effective use of technology allows St. Louis County voters to cast their ballot at any polling place regardless of where they live. Voters can also use apps to look up nearest polling places, a sample ballot, and the number of voters waiting in line to vote.

Winner: Freedom Award for Innovation, National Association of Election Officials, Professional Practices Program, 2021

Winner: Missouri Association of Counties, Innovation, 2021

Absentee Ballot Chain of Custody Improvements: Strengthening Security & Accountability

A variety of tools and techniques were used to improve the chain of custody for inbound absentee ballots, including swim lane process mapping, visual management, and hands-on simulations. The effort successfully resulted in security and accountability improvements at no added cost.

Winner: Security Award for Innovation for Election Security, National Association of Election Officials, Professional Practices Program, 2021

Make A Plan to Vote Magnet Mailer

An eye-catching brochure with important voting information about the 2022 election cycle was mailed to 370,000 county households. The grant funded brochure included a refrigerator magnet with year-round information for voters that connected them with a QR code to a state-of-art website, a first of its kind for St. Louis County elections.

Improving Post-Election Audits

A member of the public randomly selects a plastic egg filled with the number of a polling location.

Accuracy is vital to election integrity and keeping the public's trust in the electoral system. Election agencies routinely perform audits after elections to ensure the accuracy of election results. Post-election audits can detect discrepancies and ensure votes are recorded and tallied correctly. In recent years, public interest in understanding and seeing how post-election audits are conducted has grown across the U.S.

In early 2022, the St. Louis County Board of Elections (BOE) decided to review its post-election audit process, with a goal of ensuring a transparent and well-documented public process in place by the April General Municipal Election. In Missouri, election audit procedures are guided by state statutes and code of regulations. Important post-election processes include:

- Reconciliation of ballot returns and records
- Random selection of polling locations, precincts, and contested races and ballot issues
- Manual recount of ballots
- Certification of election results

Making improvements to the post-election audit process took a two-pronged approach. First, the process to reconcile electronic and paper records of ballots cast was reviewed, as well as the forms used for certifying elections results to the Secretary of State. Under this review, the BOE streamlined the methods bipartisan teams used to document data, used technology more effectively, and reduced paper. The BOE's certification forms were also updated and simplified.

Second, the entire process of randomly selecting polling locations, precincts, and contested races and ballot issues was carefully reviewed. This review resulted in major changes, including a more transparent and understandable public process for making random

Bipartisan teams manually count ballots from randomly selected races.

Randomly selected polling locations and precincts are used to determine which ballots will be used in the manual count.

selections. The BOE improved public notification through its website and social media channels. The BOE also improved documenting the selection process to distinguish ballots cast on election day and those cast during absentee voting. In its review of the manual recount, the BOE streamlined the hand tally process and improved the forms used.

The BOE was successful in meeting its goal of implementing post-election audit procedures for the 2022 General Municipal Election in April. In fact, the improved and streamlined processes resulted in a much faster process to complete audits in April, and for the Primary Election in August. In November, after the General "Midterm" Election, one of the largest showing of public members ever attended and participated in the random selection process.

Statewide Petitions

From May to July 2022, the Board of Elections (BOE) processed a total of 164,470 signatures from two petitions to adopt ranked choice voting and to legalize marijuana.

In Missouri, the initiative petition process occurs in even numbered years. The petition process and certification of petitions for the ballot is overseen by the secretary of state (SOS). If certified, petition pages are sent to election authorities to verify that the signatures are those of registered Missouri voters in the correct congressional district. After the election authority verifies the signatures, the SOS determines if they meet the minimum number to place the issue on the ballot for the general election.

In about two months, 40 BOE staff used a statewide portal to successfully verify 81,511 signatures, just under half of the total signatures received. To verify petitions, each name and signature on the petition was compared to the same components in Missouri's centralized voter registration (MCVR) database. The remaining 82,959 signatures were rejected for either not being a registered Missouri voter or a non-matching signature. The petition to legalize marijuana met the criteria to be placed on the November 8, 2022 ballot, having enough verified signatures to account for 5% of legal voters in 6 of the 8 congressional districts.

Love Your Ballot Campaign

Voting by absentee ballot via mail requires marking and mailing a paper ballot to the Board of Elections (BOE) prior to Election Day. Since June 2020, 334,702 absentee ballots have been received by the BOE. These ballots sometimes arrive in poor condition or are incorrectly marked, causing them to be rejected or requiring extra processing.

In July 2022, the BOE launched a "Love Your Ballot" educational campaign to address common mistakes made by voters:

- Returning two absentee ballots in one affidavit envelope
- Marking the ballot with a gel pen or using white-out
- Marking and sending a Sample Ballot instead of the actual absentee ballot
- Tearing the absentee ballot to where the tear interferes with ballot content
- Not signing the affidavit envelope
- Doodling or writing notes on the absentee ballot
- Spilling food/drink on the absentee ballot

Taking a humorous approach to a serious subject, the BOE produced a series of video clips featuring its staff showing common mistakes, with voiceover scripts explaining how these actions can affect accurately counting the votes cast. The completed videos were shared on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and TikTok over the course of one month prior to the August 2022 election, resulting in nearly 7,000 views during the campaign.

Training Improvements Through Oasis

Election judges, who play a key role on Election Day processing voters, are the face of elections in St. Louis County. Even more importantly, they are the hands that open and close polling places, set up and operate e-poll books and voting equipment, and complete a myriad of tasks to administer fair and accurate elections. The size of St. Louis County demands a large pool of election workers. In 2021-2022, St. Louis County's Board of Elections (BOE) trained more than 8,760 election judges.

Election Judges practice setting up equipment in a hands-on training class.

Not surprisingly, many election judges are retirees who have time and flexibility, and enjoy giving back to their community. The average age of election judges in St. Louis County is 60 years old, and those 60 and older represent 61% percent of the election judge workforce. In 2022, the BOE reflected on the training it offers to election judges and questioned if it could be improved to meet the needs of older adults, leading to a partnership with Oasis.

Oasis is a national education organization that promotes healthy aging through lifelong learning, active lifestyles, and service. A pioneer in healthy aging since 1982, Oasis offers a variety of programs including the Connections Program which is focused on technology to older adults. Oasis operates across 33 states and is headquartered in St. Louis County.

In mid-2022, the BOE engaged Oasis, through its Connections Program, to undertake a needs assessment of election judge training instruction and documents based on the principles of adult learning. Oasis provided two trained volunteers, with expertise in adult technology training to observe and review the BOE's training program and materials. Over the course of a month, the Oasis team attended Zoom and in-person classes for new and experienced election judges, as well as classes for those who work as managers at the polling places. They also reviewed BOE's Quick Reference Guide Training Manual and materials hosted on the election judges' worker portal.

The Oasis needs assessment resulted in a report that included recommendations to improve BOE's training program based on principles of how adults learn best. Key principles of adult learning include:

- 1) Promoting cooperative learning strategies
- 2) Emphasizing why the learning is relevant
- 3) Offering immediate feedback
- 4) Providing plenty of hands-on activities
- 5) Building on memories and encouraging active recall

Based on the recommendations from Oasis, the BOE was able to deliver improved training to election judges in time for the General Election on November 8, 2022. Training objectives were made clearer, classes were designed to be more interactive, engagement techniques were incorporated into Zoom training, and short quizzes were used to emphasize learning. With positive feedback from participants, and a desire to always improve, the BOE will continue to find ways to strengthen its election training.

Tours & Events

St. Louis County's Board of Elections (BOE) welcomes groups from schools and organizations to visit its facility for an in-depth behind-the-scenes experience. In 2021 and 2022, visitors came from around the country and even some from around the world to observe how elections are administered in St. Louis County.

Tours

Election officials from across the state visited the BOE on Election Day in August 2021.

Election Officials

In the election industry, election officials tend to seek input from their counterparts on voting equipment, best practices and innovative ideas. Throughout the past two years, several election officials from around the country visited the BOE several times to learn from each other and share experiences.

International Observers

International election administrators and observers from Zambia, Belgium, Finland, Ireland, Austria, Sweden, and the UK all visited the BOE in 2022. Some of these visitors were a part of professional exchanges and others visited as part of formal international election observation missions.

Political Parties

In St. Louis County, central committees exist for each of the established political parties. The Election Board encourages the committee chairs to arrange tours for committee members to learn about the continued improvements at the BOE. This information is then shared by the members with the voters who live in the townships they represent.

Schools

Teaching both educators and students at local colleges about voter registration and absentee voting helps enable the younger generation to make their voice heard. Groups from UMSL and Civitas, a non-profit organization which organizes Model UN programs, visited the BOE in 2022 to understand how students can enhance and change the election process.

Events

In June 2022, the St. Louis Press Club partnered with the BOE to host "Watchdogs of Democracy: The Media's Role in Fair Elections". Members of the club had the opportunity to enjoy a keynote speech on safe and secure elections as well as a panel discussion that featured representatives from state and local government and media.
